*YOU who have journeyed the wide world through—Knowing the Old World as the New,—
Cruise or pilgrimage or shrine,
Found you ever so all-divine
A haven as first was yours and mine
Out to old Aunt Mary's?*

Out to Old Aunt Mary's

In those old days of the lost sunshine,
Of youth

WASN'T it pleasant, O brother mine,
In those old days of the lost sunshine
Of youth—when the Saturday's chores were through,
And the "Sunday's wood" in the kitchen, too,
And we went visiting, "me and you",
Out to old Aunt Mary's?—

Edward Everett Christy 1914

The scent of the cherry-blossoms blown
After us, in the roadway lone

“Me and you”—And the morning fair,
With the dewdrops twinkling everywhere;
The scent of the cherry-blossoms blown
After us, in the roadway lone,
Our capering shadows onward thrown—
Out to old Aunt Mary’s!

• Howard Chandler Christy 1905

Out by the barn-lot and down the lane
We patter along in the dust again

It all comes back so clear to-day!
Though I am as bald as you are gray,—
 Out by the barn-lot and down the lane
We patter along in the dust again,
As light as the tips of the drops of the rain,
 Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Hardy and the other

Loitering, awed, o'er pool and shoal,
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

A decorative border featuring a repeating pattern of stylized flowers and leaves, possibly morning glories, with long, slender petals and heart-shaped leaves. The border is symmetrical and frames the central text.

The few last houses of the town;
Then on, up the high creek-bluffs and down;
Past the squat tollgate, with its well-sweep pole;
The bridge, and "The old 'Babtizin'-hole'",
Loitering, awed, o'er pool and shoal,
Out to old Aunt Mary's,

Howard Chandler Christy 1899

Where the hammering "red-heads"
hopped awry

We cross the pasture, and through the wood,
Where the old gray snag of the poplar stood
Where the hammering "red-heads"
hopped awry,

And the buzzard "raised" in the "clearing"-sky
And lolled and circled, as we went by
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Edmund Clapham 1892

Or, stayed by the glint of the redbird's wings,
Or the glitter of song that the bluebird sings.

Or, stayed by the glint of the redbird's wings,
Or the glitter of song that the bluebird sings,
All hushed we feign to strike strange trails,
As the "big braves" do in the Indian tales,
Till again our real quest lags and fails—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.—

Edward Chandler Christy, 1894.

Chasing each other from tree to tree
Out to old Aunt Mary's

A decorative border of stylized flowers and leaves, possibly pansies, framing the text. The flowers are arranged in a symmetrical pattern along the top and bottom edges, with leaves and stems filling the space between them.

And the woodland echoes with yells of mirth
That make old war-whoops of minor worth! . .
Where such heroes of war as we?—
With bows and arrows of fantasy,
Chasing each other from tree to tree
Out to old Aunt Mary's!

Our cares behind, and our hearts ahead
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

And then in the dust of the road again;
And the teams we met, and the countrymen;
And the long highway, with sunshine spread
As thick as butter on country bread,
Our cares behind, and our hearts ahead
Out to old Aunt Mary's.—

Howard Chandler Christy 1904

Where dwelt our Saint in her simple cot—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

For only, now, at the road's next bend
To the right we could make out the gable-end
Of the fine old Huston homestead—not
Half a mile from the sacred spot
Where dwelt our Saint in her simple cot—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Edward Chasler Crosby, 1884

And wasn't it good for a boy to be
Out to old Aunt Mary's

Why, I see her now in the open door
Where the little gourds grew up the sides and o'er
The clapboard roof!—And her face—ah, me!
Wasn't it good for a boy to see—
And wasn't it good for a boy to be
Out to old Aunt Mary's?—

— Howard Chandler Christy —

The jelly—the jam and the marmalade,
And the cherry- and quince-“preserves” she made

The jelly—the jam and the marmalade,
And the cherry- and quince-“preserves” she made!
And the sweet-sour pickles of peach and pear,
With cinnamon in ’em, and all things rare!—
And the more we ate was the more to spare,
Out to old Aunt Mary’s!

— Howard Chandler Christy 1904

Just for the visiting children's sake—
Out to old Aunt Mary's

Ah! was there, ever, so kind a face
And gentle as hers, or such a grace
Of welcoming, as she cut the cake
Or the juicy pies that she joyed to make
Just for the visiting children's sake—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

—Squire Clifford, Christy, 7

The honey, too, in its amber comb
One only finds in an old farm-home

The honey, too, in its amber comb
One only finds in an old farm-home;
And the coffee, fragrant and sweet, and ho!
So hot that we gloried to drink it so,
With spangles of tears in our eyes, you know—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Or was it the grove, with its leafy breeze,
Or the dim hay-mow, with its fragrances

And the romps we took, in our glad unrest!—
Was it the lawn that we loved the best,
 With its swooping swing in the locust trees,
 Or was it the grove, with its leafy breeze,
 Or the dim hay-mow, with its fragrances—
 Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Laughed all day as it slowly poured
Over the dam by the old mill-ford

Far fields, bottom-lands, creek-banks—all,
We ranged at will.—Where the waterfall
Laughed all day as it slowly poured
Over the dam by the old mill-ford,
While the tail-race writhed,
and the mill-wheel roared—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Howard Chandler Christy 1904

The talks on the back-porch, in the low
Slanting sun and the evening glow

A decorative border featuring a repeating pattern of stylized flowers and leaves, possibly morning glories, framing the central text.

But home, with Aunty in nearer call,
That was the best place, after all!—
The talks on the back-porch, in the low
Slanting sun and the evening glow,
With the voice of counsel that touched us so,
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

And then, in the garden—near the side
Where the bee-hives were and the path was wide

And then, in the garden—near the side
Where the bee-hives were and the path was wide,—
The apple-house—like a fairy cell—
With the little square door we knew so well,
And the wealth inside
but our tongues could tell—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

Where the swinging shelves
and the crocks were kept,
Where the cream in a golden languor slept

And the old spring-house, in the cool green gloom
Of the willow trees,—and the cooler room
Where the swinging shelves
and the crocks were kept,
Where the cream in a golden languor slept,
While the waters gurgled and laughed and wept—
Out to old Aunt Mary's.

—Grand Olden Church, 1888.

Memory now is on her knees
Out to old Aunt Mary's

And as many a time have you and I—
Barefoot boys in the days gone by—
 Knelt, and in tremulous ecstasies
Dipped our lips into sweets like these,—
Memory now is on her knees
 Out to old Aunt Mary's.—

Howell Chandler Christy

..... And all is well
Out to old Aunt Mary's

For, O my brother so far away,
This is to tell you—she waits to-day
To welcome us:—Aunt Mary fell
Asleep this morning, whispering, “Tell
The boys to come”. And all is well
Out to old Aunt Mary’s.
